A FINEER WOMAN

I, Soror Everett extol excellence in the field of social work and early childhood education by supporting the social emotional wellbeing of our future leaders. My work impacts women by representing 1 out of 15% of African American Women Social Workers in the US.

A FINEER WOMAN

I, Soror Jill W. Dingle, extol excellence in the field of Public Health - Health Program Administration by ensuring that HIV/AIDS, HCV and STI resources are allocated equitably across New York State. This enables women impacted by HIV/AIDS to access high quality, primary care and supportive services to achieve viral load suppression, self management of HIV and decrease further transmission.

A FINEER WOMAN

I, Soror Caro, extol excellence in the field of law, by serving as a court attorney. 38.3% of lawyers are women and the percentage of Hispanic lawyers nationwide is 5.8% according to the ABA profile of the legal profession 2022.

A FINEER WOMAN

I, Soror Shavonne Ceruti-Gay, extol excellence in the field of Training and Professional Development by working with individuals in leadership positions and adult learners to help them to identify both individual strengths and challenges to help them achieve their work related goal and increase their confidence and competency in skill acquisition as well as support transfer of learning of newly learned skills. My work impacts women by supporting women leaders to build their leadership and professional development skills in order to enhance in their careers and supports increasing female representation in senior leadership positions.

A FINEER WOMAN

I, Soror Jacqueline Jacobs, extol excellence in the field of healthcare by managing the NYS Cancer services Program at the Ralph Lauren Center - Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center. This impacts women by facilitating free screening for breast, cervical, and colorectal cancer, which removes health care barriers in neighbors where there is an increase in health care disparities. The program offers screening to uninsured women regardless of immigration status.

A FINEER WOMAN

I, Soror Whitney Alexander, extol excellence in the field of Makeup Artistry by elevating the spirits, moods, and cheekbones of women across the world. My work enables people to see themselves in the absolute best view to empower them to walk into any room with their held held high. When you look good, you feel GREAT! I spread joy through my gifts.

A FINEER WOMAN

I, Soror Kendra Stennis, extol excellence in the field of Human Resources by assisting businesses reach its goals by managing their employees, which impacts women by closing the gender gap in pay and providing opportunities for growth in positions of leadership.

A FINEER WOMAN

I, Soror Wanda Sharif-Rodriguez, extol excellence as a pharmaceutical scientist by mentoring HS students and leading diversity efforts by recruiting more women of color to my field. The work I do in my community as an NAACP ACTSO mentor, leader for my company's Black Employees resource group and board member of women of color in pharmaceutical (WOCIP) will impact better science and health initiatives for women.

A FINEER WOMAN

I, Soror Judi Anderson, extol excellence in the field of Affirmative Action/DEI Compliance by working with the college community to ensure that there is diversity, equity and inclusion in the hiring process. We recognize that there are disparities in the hiring process and want to ensure that minorities, women and those in the protected class are afforded the same opportunities as everyone else.

A FINEER WOMAN

I Soror Joslyn Carter, extol excellence daily by leading a team who provide services for those in need of stable housing. This work primarily impacts women and children as they make up 70% of those experiencing homelessness. We function as the safety net of the safety net, allowing families the space to stabilize their lives, get back on their feet, and return to permanent housing.

I, Soror Whitehead, extol excellence in the field of education as the DP Coordinator in a International Baccalaureate high school by providing academic support and supporting the social emotional well being of my students. My work has an impact on many areas within the school setting and close the achievement gap and reduce discipline disparities. As a minority educator I also serve as role model to many student by promoting diversity and equity for all.

I, Soror Christine Friday extol excellence in the area of Community Service/Outreach in her work as a Girl Scout Troop leader (Troop 2249) and service project coordinator. This work impacts young girls - educating them in areas including but not limited to leadership, service, entrepreneurship, health/wellness, and advocacy.

I, Soror Durant, extol excellence in the fields of Social Work and Public Health by dedicating my professional life to addressing inequities and disparities in maternal and birth health. Black women are more likely than White women to have certain birth risk factors that contribute to infant mortality, deal with long-term physical ailments as a result of illness during pregnancy or have higher rates of pregnancy-related death compared to White women. I Fight For health equity.
